Negro Charged With Murder In Shooting

Charged with murder with malice in the April 19th shooting of Taso Dorsey is Morris Spriggs.

According to reports from County Attorney Jim Miller and Deputy Sheriff Douglas Barron, Spriggs and Dorsey had been engaged in a dice game Sunday morning and had argued over a bet. Spriggs had left the game and gone back to his mother's house where he brooded over some name calling and picked up a 380 automatic pistol. He then forced Isaiah Woodard to drive him along with his mother back to Dorsey's house in the flat where he engaged in an argument with Dorsey for about 5 to 8 minutes. Spriggs was standing in the street and Dorsey was sitting on the edge of his front porch with a young child standing on the ground between his legs.

Suddenly, during the argument, Spriggs pulled out the pistol and shot Dorsey four times, killing him on the spot. The child was narrowly missed.

Following the shooting Spriggs went back and called the sheriff's office himself, asking someone to come out and pick him up.

Deputy Douglas Barron made the arrest. The shooting occurred about 2 p. m.

Cancer Crusade Has Reached Half of Its 1953 Goal For Texas

Austin.—For the first time in the seven-year history of the American Cancer Society, Texas Division, more than one-half of the state goal was achieved by April 15.

As of that date, a total of $325,750.72 was either pledged or in the bank. This figure is 54.29 per cent of the 1953 state goal of $600,000.

This total represents funds reported by Crusade Chairmen, memorial contributions and other gifts received at state headquarters during the year (to be credited to county Crusades) and funds either pledged or received from federated "one-fund" drives.

However, Division President Travis W. Wallace of Dallas cautioned against over-optimism.

"This simply means that the second half of the Texas goal will come harder than the first half did," he said.

He added, "Every possible dollar is needed if we are to contine fighting cancer through through our expanding programs for research, public education, and service. There can be no let-up if Texas is to reach its goal."

Hinton Pruett is chairman of the Milam County Cancer Crusade.

Body Of Joe Stasa Found Sunday Morning; Leaves Several Notes

Found dead about 8:30 Sunday morning, the victim of his own hand, was Joe Stasa, 64.

According to Sheriff Carl C. Black, Stasa was living on the Kacir farm at the time of his suicide. The farm is located south of Rogers.

Stasa left several notes and letters dated as far back as March 17. The last note was written on April 14.

In the notes he gave an accurate accounting of all his belongings, what he owed, and what was owed him, and expressed his wishes as to what he wanted done with it. He stated in one of the notes that the Kacir farm owed him $21.50 for labor. Of this money he requested that $11.50 be given to the polio fund and $10 to the Red Cross. He also left various sums of money to several other charitable organizations. Along with the notes the sheriff found a $1,000 life insurance policy.

Stasa was found lying under a large tree near the gate to the property. He had shot himself through the heart with a .38 Colt pistol.

The whole thing was evidently well planned. It was estimated that the suicide took place Thursday or Friday. He requested that his body be cremated.

Funeral services were held Monday at 3 p. m. at Marek-Burns funeral home. Following the funeral, the body was taken to Dallas for cremation.

Mr. Stasa was born in Czechoslovakia in 1899 and came to the United States in 1907. He had been a resident of Milam County for 46 years.

He is survived by a brother, John Stasa, of Corpus Christi; and a sister, Mrs. Frances Hatla, of Littlefield. His wife died in 1951.

Number Of Draft Delinquents in Texas Slightly Decreasing

Austin, Texas.—The number of draft delinquents in Texas during the first quarter of 1953 decreased by 8 per cent, Brig. Gen. Paul L. Wakefield, state Selective Service director, said Tuesday.

Draft boards had 835 delinquents on their rolls at beginning of the year, compared to 774 at the end of March, board reports show. Delinquencies totaled nearly 1,000 a year ago.

Boards at Dallas, Houston, El Paso, and Edinburg have 64 per cent of the delinquent total of the entire state. El Paso continues to have more than any other single county.

The number of boards having no delinquents decreased from 24 at the beginning of the year to 17 as of the end of the first quarter.

Boards having no delinquents as of the end of March are located at Lufkin, Palestine, Pleasanton, Temple, Angleton, Brownwood, La Grange, Richmond, Fredericksburg, Lockhart, Anson, Jayton, Lampasas, Giddings, Perryton, San Angelo, and Wichita Falls.

A delinquent is defined in Selective Service regulations as "a person required to be registered under the Selective Service law who fails or neglects to perform any duty required of him under provisions of the Selective Service law." Only a local board can declare a man delinquent.

Voters Urged to Back Preferential Primary

Austin, Texas.—The people of Texas were urged today by State Senator Jimmy Phillips of Angleton to contact their members of the House of Representatives immediately and urge them to vote for a bill which will give the voters the opportunity, through a preferential primary, to name the State's choice for president and vice president of the United States.

The bill would do away with the present system whereby political leaders of both the Democratic and Republican parties decide whom the State's vote will go for to nominate presidential and vice presidential candidates.

The bill has already been passed by the Senate with only two dissenting votes, but Phillips pointed out the fact that an amendment which would have eliminated the part of the primary plan calling for the election of delegates was killed by a narrow margin of 16 to 14. "This is an indication that the love of the convention system is not dead in the hearts of some political leaders, and they are loathe to trust the voters to name presidential preferences. I hope sentiment in the House of Representatives will reflect what the people of Texas undoubtedly want—a change from the convention system to the preferential system," Phillips said.

"Letters, telegrams, petitions telephone calls from every section of Texas and from Texans of all walks of life convince me the people of this State want this privilege of voting for president and vice president through a preferential primary," Phillips declared. "If they will contact their own representative in the lower House of the Legislature immediately, I believe the people of Texas will get favorable action and this bill will become law."

He urged that citizens of Texas contact their members of the Texas House of Representatives by letter, postal card, telegram, telephone and personally, and express themselves. "Now is the time for action if Texas is ever to have a preferential primary," Phillips said.

"The voice of the people of Texas is surely louder and stronger than that of a few politicians who want to rig conventions and do the thinking for the rest of Texas and tell us whom we must accept as presidential and vice presidential 'nominees."

Defense Department Issues June Draft Call For 32,000 Men

Washington.—The Defense Department Wednesday issued a draft call for 32,000 men in June, 21,000 less than the number called up during each of the four previous months.

The department said all of the June draftees will go into the Army. The Navy, Air Force, and Marines requested no inductions in June, apparently able to fill quotas with volunteers and reenlistments.

For each of February, March, April, and May, the department had asked Selective Service to draft 53,000 men. A spokesman said the chief reason for the cut is that the proposed two-year cycle for inducting men into the service now has been established.

Department officials said the reduction in the June quota has nothing to do with current Soviet peace overtures or the prospect that the Korean was may be coming to an end.

TP&L Presents Sales Experts At Appliance Dealers Meeting

Five Cameron businessmen and their wives attended the appliance dealers meeting of the Texas Power & Light Company in Dallas. Five nationally recognized experts in electrical appliance selling were presented by TP&L as a public service to 2,000 appliance industry representatives in a program at Fair Park Auditorium.

Attending were electrical appliance dealers from 52 counties in North, East and Central Texas; also distributors and manufacturers' representatives from this territory. Those from Cameron were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. McCullin, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Andres, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mitchan, Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Lester, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Siebman. Mr. Siebman is the manager of the TP&L office in Cameron.

W. W. Lynch, TP&L president and general manager, said that the meeting, the first of its type to be sponsored by a power company for dealers located over such a wide area, was planned to bring the dealers new merchandise and selling techniques by top sales executives of appliance manufacturers.

He added that the two are a selling team contributing to a high standard of living—one member selling electrical appliances and the other supplying the necessary power on which that high standard is achieved through the use of these appliances.

Ted B. Ferguson, TP&L vice president in charge of sales and advertising, made the welcoming address in which he pointed out that the program was given for the dealers in appreciation of their contribution toward the objective of getting people to live better electrically.

Entertainment was provided by a group of star performers: Connee Boswell, singer; Nick Lucas, guitarist; Wally Brown, humorist; Eddie O'Neal and his orchestra; Rolly Rolls, Edward Deis and Jean Deis, pianists.

The visitors were guests at a chuck wagon luncheon in the General Exhibits Building at Fair Park.

AMERICA'S NEW RAILROAD

"I want a ticket on the Atomic Texas Chief!"

Well, sonny, just hang on to that dream. By the time you're a full fare, it might come true!

Of course there is no "Atomic Texas Chief" . . . yet.

But, don't sell American ingenuity and progress short. At the rate things grow new for you on the Santa Fe, you only need to squint your mind's eye just a little to see tomorrow streaming toward you down the track!

You can almost feel the future of Santa Fe in the quickened tempo of its progress in the recent past.

Just count the growing number of Santa Fe diesels that speed your freight and smooth your ride today.

Nineteen years ago there weren't any. Today there are 1422 units. By year's end there'll be 97 more. Steam is disappearing fast. And more than 250 coaling and watering stations have bit the dust.

Santa Fe folks just don't dally when it comes to building new.

For today the Santa Fe is America's new railroad. And it's going to stay that way by growing newer every day—in every way that can mean new safety, better service, new comfort and dependability for you.

It costs millions of dollars to serve you so. But it doesn't add a penny to the taxes you pay. Santa Fe folks are proud of that, too—proud that the newness of the Santa Fe is a part of American progress that pays its own way.

LEONARD BROCK WAS RESTLESS TRAIN ROBBER

The most significant and interesting facts abont an outlaw's life often is how he got started, and how he got stopped. Leonard Calvert Brock got his starting opportunity accidentally — through a display of muscles, cursing and courage. One day in a Fort Worth saloon a big bully encountered Brock, cursed him and ordered him out of his way. Brock stood his ground, and cursed right back, only a little stronger. The bully pulled a knife. Brock whipped out a pistol and struck the man a jarring blow on the arm that sent the knife cluttering to the floor. Brock then holstered his gun and gave the bully a working over with his fists and left him on the floor very flat and very cold.

Now there happened to be a train robber present that day. The robber didn't have a place for Brock on his team at the moment, but he interviewed him and made mental notes of his talents. The train robber was the great Rube Burrow.

And, as it turned out, it was not long before Rube was running low of men, due to the persistent efforts of sheriffs and railroad detectives.

Rube, at the time was in Alabama far from the Texas scene, but what he needed, he thought, was a little more of the Texas spirit in his line - up. So he sent Brock a letter telling him that he had a place for him. Then for the benefit of the railroad detectives who were pressing him very close at the time he put out the word that he had sent for his partner Joe Jackson. Jackson was a famed member of the late Sam Bass ganf. (Actually the Jackson of Bass gang fame was known as "Frank".) However, announcement of this new blood was supposed to put the fear of God and hot lead into all railroad detectives.

The South began to hear much of this etam. On December 15, 1888, the men robbed the Illinois Central at Duck Hill, Mississippi. A passenger, Chester Hughes, showing much bravery and no caution, attempted to thwart the robbery with a borrowed gun. He caught three bullets in his stomach so close together that all could have been covered with a hand. Brock, alias Jackson, came out of that holdup with his cut of one thousand dollars and a murder charge. Later the outlaws robbed a train at Buckatunna, Mississippi. But with murder on his hands Brock's days were numbered.

In July, 1890, Brock was captured and jailed at Memphis. Once inside prison walls Brock was one of the most remorseful of prisoners. He reflected continuously upon his many mistakes. He wanted to tell everything—even to confess more, apparently, than he had done. He had had a better than fair chance in life and the fact that he could never settle down to useful pursuits made him revolt against himself.

He was born in Coffee County, Alabama, July 13, 1860, the son of a doctor. He went to school for a while. But at the age of sixteen he had a cutting scrape with a Negro, and immigrated hurriedly to Texas. He worked at various jobs in San Antonio, Dallas, Sherman, Texarkana, and other places.

In July, 1890 Brock was taken to the penitentiary at Jackson, Mississippi, for safe keeping. He elected to plead guilty to the robbery at Buckatunna and received a life sentence. But later be told the officers: "I prefer death to imprisonment for life, for what is life without liberty."

He said he had no money to employ an attorney. His life of crime had brought him perhaps less than $3,000. On November 8, he told a fellow prisoner wearing ar old and worn hat: "You need a new hat; you may have mine Monday."

The following Monday, November 10, 1890, he wrote a note saying that he was innocent, that he was being forced to a trial without witnesses. Then he went to the fourth floor of the prison and dropped the note. Almost by the time the paper had floated into the prison yard, Brock's body came crashing onto the ground.

On the body of the dying man, the guards found a poem in his handwriting:

"How wise we are when the chance is gone,
And a glance we backward cast.
We know just the thing we should have done
When the time for doing it is past."

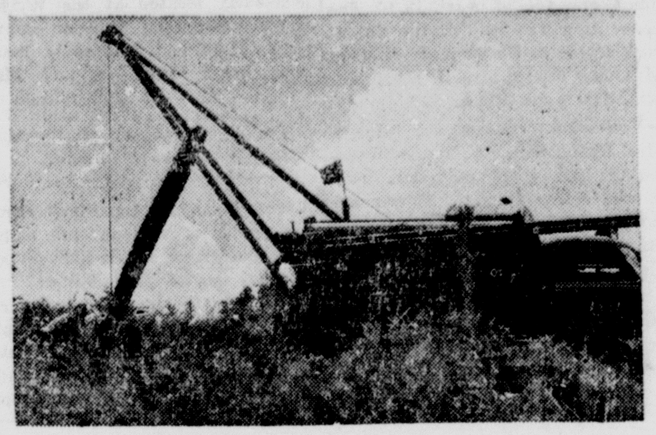
Pole Planter in Action



THIS VERSATILE NEW TELEPHONE TRUCK can dig a hole, pick up a 20-foot pole and plant it in position faster than a man can set a fence post. This is one of many new technical developments that are helping us push telephone lines out into farming areas at a record-breaking pace. In just seven years we have set 256,000 poles in a construction program that has increased the number of Southwestern Bell rural telephones in Texas six times. And this year we hope to extend service to many more families and businesses in rural areas.

Cameron Buyers Find New White Bread On Grocery Store Shelves

Today housewives will find a new brand of white enriched bread, supplemented with Vitamin D on grocers' bread shelves.

Holsum Bread fortified with Vitamin D and packaged in a bright, orange-red, plasticcoated wrapper went on sale Monday in Central Texas stores. Holsum Bread is produced by Holsum Bread Bakers of Central Texas.

Roy Horne, manager of the company, says Holsum brand was originally developed many years ago, the name emphasizing the good-tasting and health-giving qualities of bread—the basic food of most families all over the world.

Horne points out that the addition of Vitamin D provides extra nutritional values to the consumer. "Vitamin D," he says, "helps the body get the most good out of the calcium and phosporus in bread and other foods. It helps build stronger teeth and bones. Without Vitamin D, the body fails to utilize much of the calcium and phosphorus present in the normal diet."

Holsum is one of the most widely distributed brands of bread in North America. It appears on family tables in 39 of the 48 states, as well as in many parts of Canada. In each community, it is produced by an independent baker. According to Roy Horne, the baking process and formula from which Holsum Bread with Vitamin D is produced give the bread a fresh home-baked flavor and aroma which is sealed in by the plastic-coated wrapper.

Holsum bread will sell for the same price as regular white bread and the additional cost of adding Vitamin D will be absorbed by the company.

Holsum Bread Bakers of Central Texas (producers of the bread with the Vitamin D fortified formula and the bright red wrapper) has served residents of this area since 1930 and is owned and operated by people of this trade territory.

More than 40 salesmen of a Holsum Bread Bakers attended a meeting on April 19 to see the new Holsum Vitamin D bread, its bright new wrapper and the extensive advertising program which accompanies its introduction.

At the meeting N. A. Flood Jr., president of Holsum Break Bakers, presented the Holsum Vitamin D bread to the organization. The advertising and sales program was outlined by J. A. Smith, vice president and director of sales of W. E. Long Co., Chicago agency, who prepared the program and handled the promotion of Holsum bread for Holsum Bread Bakers.

Holsum white enriched bread with Vitamin D was available to shoppers in Central Texas starting April 20.

The local salesman in this area is Tommy Sheguit, and R. L. Terry is District Supervisor, which covers five routes including Cameron, Rosebud, Caldwell, Rockdale and Taylor.

THE LOST VIRUS

by Science Features

A corrugated paper box found more than 30 years after it was lost in a University of Michigan laboratory has yielded what may be an important clue in solving the riddle of the virus. For the virus, smallest of all known disease organisms, is one of the largest unsolved problems of science. Viruses cause such diseases as infantile paralysis and influenza.

The story begins 44 years ago—in 1909. Dr. Frederick G. Novy, Michigan's famed bacteriologist, was conducting experiments with a powerful virus fatal to rats. The virus, kept constantly supplied with the living tissue believed necessary for its existence, was studied for ten years. In 1919 the test tubes containing the virus were lost.

Thirty-two years passed.

Then, in 1951, workers cleaning the laboratory found a corrugated paper box hidden in one corner—and inside with the lost test tubes. Meanwhile, scientists had greatly added to their knowledge about viruses through use of the electron microscope and other new devices. They believed that the rat virus so long neglected would be dead.

Instead, it was deadly. When the test tubes and their brown deposits were ground up and injected into healthy rats, 75 per cent of the experimental animals died within three to eleven days. Dr. Novy, who retired in 1935, came out of retirement to prepare a scientific report on the lost—but still very much alive—virus.

As a result of this discovery, scientists are investigating the possibility that other viruses, perhaps those which cause human disease, may be capable of long periods of survival without a living "host" on which to feed.

All About BABY

Now that spring is here—and summer on the way—mothers are faced with the perennial problem of switching baby from heavier garments to lighter clothing. As with everything else, there's a right and wrong way of doing it.

Don't be impulsive and remove all outer clothing simply because you hear the first robin chirp. Gradually adjust the child's wardrobe from cool spring to warmer weather. Improper clothing is one of the reasons why baby is cranky. The right kind of clothing makes the child more comfortable and is as important as the right kind of food.

An especially good garment for this switch season is Slumber-Kins, styled by Sterncraft, makers of Slumber-Gro, the sleeping bag that grows. A slip-over, pants and bootees combination, Slumber-Kins keeps baby comfortable awake or asleep. The elasticized pants, full-cut sleeves and legs allow baby plenty of room to move in. And the cotton terry cloth washes well and dries quickly.

THE LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER WANTS TAX COLLECTING HANDLED THROUGH PENTAGON, WHERE THE RED TAPE IS

Editor's note: The Little River Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm at Marlow ought to know what he's talking about this week, inefficiency.

Dear editar:

Since I had plenty to do, you know most people usually say since they didn't have anything to do they took it easy but if I waited till I didn't have anything to do before takin things easy I'd never get around to it, at any rate. I was out there takin things easy yesterday when I stopped under a tree and sat down and pulled a newspaper out of my pocket I'd been carryin around a few weeks and unfolded it and after I got comfortable read where one of the reasons there was an ammunition shortage in Korea some time back was that it took things so long to get through the Penetgon.

As I understand it, the Pentagon is a buildin in Washington where the army transact its business on paper and accordin to this story it sometimes requires an order nine months to a year to get from one end of the Pentagon to the other, due to the envolved red tape. Consequently when a General in Korea calls for some more bullets, it takes months before the order trickles down through the Pentagon, and the obviously remedy is to get Generals who can tell twelve months in advance what the enemy is gonna do, which directions he's gonna move in and at what hour, and get set for him.

But what I started out to say was is what I want to know is why don't we use the Pentagon for other phases of government?

For example, why don't they put the tax collection department over there? Nothin would make a bigger hit with me than its takin the government nine months to a year to get around to sendin me a tax bill.

People are always talkin about government inefficiency, but there are some phases of government that can't get too inefficient to suit me, and mailin tax statements heads the list. Also, I could use a lot more inefficiency and sloppy bookeepin in creditin taxes and gettin around to findin out who hasn't paid up yet.

I believe with the proper plannin and channelin the collectin through the proper offices in the Pentagon or any other buildin they got up there where red tape is swirlin, a man could get by for years without paying any taxes and it might be years after that before anybody got around to discoverin it.

There's nothing wrong with red tape, it just ought to be removed from the amunition orders and hauled over to the tax collectin room.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.
